Both community and public housing provide long-term rental accommodation for people on low incomes.

Public housing is managed by the state government. It is for people most in need, especially those who have recently experienced homelessness or have other special needs.

Community housing is managed by not-for-profit organisations. Some specialise in helping people with a disability, women, singles and older people.

Q60 → Are you interested in any of the following types of community housing?

For more information about these types of housing, see the Victorian Housing Register guide, available from housing.vic.gov.au/forms-guides or by contacting one of our offices.

DOCUMENT REQUIRED

Provide a letter from a doctor confirming when the baby is due, or from the person or organisation that is arranging the adoption or permanent care to confirm when the child will be in your care.

A support provider may have nomination rights to a social housing property. This means if a property becomes vacant, the support provider can nominate a suitable client to be offered the property.

Some organisations can sponsor applications for social housing. For example, if a council has given land to a social housing agency they may be able to recommend applicants to be offered social housing.
